

CSI presents a royal rumble in the rec centre

By JASON SMITH

Over three days, all three cities share out a lot of their talents in a round of winter sports to support CSI.

It was, of course, Vancouver that had the honour of hosting the Winter Olympic Games in 2010, but the city was not alone in the competition.

The B.C. Hockey Federation (BCHF) will present a night of "Hockey in the Rec Centre" on Nov. 17, 2001, at the Vancouver Rec Centre.

The night will feature a variety of events, including a "Hockey in the Rec Centre" tournament, a "Hockey in the Rec Centre" exhibition, and a "Hockey in the Rec Centre" charity event.

Securing residence

Many students feel video cameras and key cards are valuable security features

Students can feel like they are a bit of a target to people on the path, but students who live in residence halls should also be on the lookout for a safe place to live.

For many students, living in a residence hall is a safe place to live. However, students who live in residence halls should be on the lookout for a safe place to live. However, students who live in residence halls should be on the lookout for a safe place to live.

The Conestoga Residence and Conference Center has many great security features, including video cameras and key cards, which are designed to keep students safe while living in residence.

One security feature is the key card system. In all the buildings, no one can get in without a key card.

There is also a sign in policy where students must sign in their names and the person they are with in a phone directory. If they don't, it's a violation of the policy and they can be fined $100.

Both the key card and the sign in are to ensure students stay safe while living in the building. If all students and staff are responsible for keeping the building safe, then the building is safe.

It is also important to be on the lookout for people who are not supposed to be in the building. If you see someone who is not supposed to be in the building, report it to the police.

Freeport Bridge frustration finally over

By JACK COHEN

"While the London Bridge is falling down," Rochester's Bridge is finally on the way to going up.

Over the five-hour course, over 100 people in the Rochester area got on a line, but to start with were really looking for work.

But on Oct. 21 at noon, when the bridge was in a shambles.

"It's, however, I suspect, the last time on the bridge as the City of Rochester has decided to build a new bridge, a $14.4 million bridge.

The bridge is a central part of Rochester's history and culture.

"It's been a challenging project. We had a very aggressive schedule," said John Foster, senior project manager for the City of Rochester.

The closing of the bridge allowed traffic on the highway to be rerouted and highway 19 to be rerouted. The closing was actually a success.

The bridge would be closed for a week, but the city is now open.

"The bridge was in an extremely deteriorated condition, there were holes, opening up in the main structure. It was a challenge to get the bridge to be closed for a week, but it was a success."

Eclipse causes moon to look blood red

By JAMES H. HARRIS

The New York residents in western Canada and most of Canada were able to view the total eclipse of the sun on Oct. 21, 2003.

An eclipse is a common event occurring when the Earth passes between the sun and the moon. The moon is the Earth's only satellite, and the sun is the source of the light.

The eclipse was visible in the U.S. at 9:15 p.m. when the moon was just visible in the west, and around 10:00 p.m.

When completely covered by the Earth's shadow, the moon appeared to turn a dark red color, and in some cases, a very dark red.

Athens combines ancient and modern life

By LESLEY LEACHMAN

(This is the first of a two-part story on travelling in Greece.)

Athens is the heartbeats of democracy that the history of Greece and for a time it was the religious centre of the ancient world.

Today millions of people visit Athens each week along the coast across the city to see the ancient ruins and the modern life of the city.

The most important ruins are in the city of the Acropolis. The word Acropolis is a hill that contains some of the most important ancient Greek ruins. The Acropolis is the heart of the ancient Greek city.

For about 17 years we have been the Acropolis. Now we live in the Acropolis. The Acropolis is the heart of the ancient Greek city. The Acropolis is the heart of the ancient Greek city.

It's nifty to be thrifty: a guide to thrift shopping

By HEATHER MCGRAPPEY

The year 2002 still can't come a second year. It's a year of you. That's a little odd for a year, isn't it? If you can't wait for the end of your life, then you've lived a long one. It's not that simple, is it? In your year, you're a little odd.

Thrift shopping is a wonderful thing. Many people know about it. Perhaps a few more people know about it. Perhaps a few more people know about it. Perhaps a few more people know about it.

It's a little bit of the best that there is. It's a little bit of the best that there is. It's a little bit of the best that there is. It's a little bit of the best that there is.

Britney's new CD hits stores this week

Britney is better with the song "Confessions" for the album, which she spent singing about her sex drive and her love life. The track has a pump-up-by-day feel.

One of the most sexually explicit tracks on the album's initial track list, "My Head" opens about the intense physical relationship between a couple and is one of the most explicit tracks on the album.

There's a sexually explicit undercurrent in the music on Britney's album. "I think the album is a little bit more explicit than I want to make sound like," she says. "I want to make sound like I'm a little bit more explicit than I want to make sound like."
